About Larry Tracey

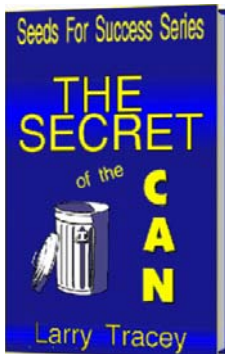

From studying for the priesthood to being part of the pit crew for Evel Knievel, Larry Tracey has risen to the top the hard way. Larry spent thirteen years learning hard lessons on what he calls a road of "personal destruction." Amazingly, these life experiences propelled him to a road of "personal construction."

He is a former classroom teacher, past outreach coordinator for at-risk youth, chemical dependency counselor, author and father of three, who specializes in teaching people how to "Plant Seeds of Success" in others and in themselves.

Larry left the educational environment to increase his ability to impact and change lives. He is one of Toastmasters International top speakers and in 2003 and 2008, he competed in the semifinals of The World Championship of Public Speaking. People find his keynotes and training style very genuine, inspirational and empowering. Larry is founder of the Youth4Youth program. www.youth4youth.org
